A genealogical profile of Roger Chandler

Birth: Roger Chandler was born in England about 1590.

Death: He died between May 5, 1646, and October 3, 1665.

Ship: Unknown, possibly 1629 or 1630 [see below]

Life in England: Roger Chandler described himself as “from Colchester [Essex] at his marriage, so this may be a clue to his English origin.

Life in Holland: He was a say weaver in Leiden. In 1622, he, his wife and two children were living in the Sevenhuysen area on Leiden. He probably left Leiden in 1629 or 1630, when many of the congregation emigrated to Plymouth Colony.

Life in New England: Roger Chandler first appeared in the Plymouth records in the 1633 list of freemen. He does not appear to have served in any official capacity in Plymouth Colony.

Family: Roger Chandler married Isabel Chilton in Leiden on July 15, 1615, and had four children. No death record for Isabel has been found, but as no provision was made for her after Roger’s death, she may have predeceased him.

Children of Roger and Isabel Chandler:

- Samuel was born in Leiden before October 15, 1622. There is no further record.
- Sarah was born in Leiden before October 15, 1622. She married Solomon Leonard/Leonardson about 1640 and had six children. He died in Bridgewater before May 1, 1671. She died in Bridgewater before October 27, 1675.
- Martha was born probably in the late 1620s. She married John Bundy by 1649 and had six children. She died in Taunton on May 1, 1674. He died in Taunton in 1681.
- Mary was born probably in the late 1620s. She married Edmund Bruff by 1653 and had one son. She is likely the “Mary wife of Edmund Burfe” who died in Boston on August 15, 1658.

Where do I go from here?

Researching your family’s history can be a fun, rewarding, and occasionally frustrating project. Start with what you know by collecting information on your immediate family. Then, trace back through parents, grandparents, and beyond. This is a great opportunity to speak to relatives, gather family stories, arrange and identify old family photographs, and document family possessions that have been passed down from earlier generations.

Once you have learned all you can from family members, you will begin to discover other sources. A wide variety of records can help you learn more about the lives of your ancestors. These include birth, marriage, and death records; immigration and naturalization records; land records; census records; probate records and wills; church and cemetery records; newspapers; passenger lists; military records; and much more.

When you use information from any source — an original record, a printed book, or a website — always be careful to document it. If you use a book, you should cite the author or compiler, the full title, publication information and pages used. Also be sure to record the author’s sources for the information. If the author’s sources aren’t provided, you will have to try to find the original source. Many genealogical works contain faulty information, and the Internet also contains many inaccuracies. In order for your work to be accepted — by lineage societies and other genealogists — it must be properly documented.
