A Genealogical Profile of Thomas Clark

Birth: Thomas Clark was born about 1599 in England.

Death: He died on March 24, 1696/7, in Plymouth.

Ship: Anne or Little James, 1623

Life in England: Nothing is known of his life in England.

Life in New England: Thomas Clark came over as a single man in 1623. He was a freeman of the colony by 1633. He served on a number of juries and committees, and was also chosen as constable for Eel River in Plymouth and surveyor of highways. He lived in Boston by 1660, although he returned to Plymouth by 1673. Although he had no formal legal training, Thomas Clark acted as a lawyer on numerous occasions, both for himself and others. His gravestone on Burial Hill is one of the few dating from the 17th century.

Family: Thomas Clark married (1) Susanna Ring before 1631 in Plymouth and had six children. She died sometime after 1646. He married (2) Alice (Hallett) Nichols after January 20, 1664/5, in Boston. She died by July 25, 1671.

Children of Thomas and Susanna Clark:

- Andrew was born about 1646. He married Mehitabel Scotto by 1672 in Boston and had six children. He died in Harwich in 1706.

For Further Information:
Where do I go from here?

Researching your family’s history can be a fun, rewarding, and occasionally frustrating project. Start with what you know by collecting information on your immediate family. Then, trace back through parents, grandparents, and beyond. This is a great opportunity to speak to relatives, gather family stories, arrange and identify old family photographs, and document family possessions that have been passed down from earlier generations.

Once you have learned all you can from family members, you will begin to discover other sources. A wide variety of records can help you learn more about the lives of your ancestors. These include birth, marriage, and death records; immigration and naturalization records; land records; census records; probate records and wills; church and cemetery records; newspapers; passenger lists; military records; and much more.

When you use information from any source — an original record, a printed book, or a website — always be careful to document it. If you use a book, you should cite the author or compiler, the full title, publication information and pages used. Also be sure to record the author’s sources for the information. If the author’s sources aren’t provided, you will have to try to find the original source. Many genealogical works contain faulty information, and the Internet also contains many inaccuracies. In order for your work to be accepted — by lineage societies and other genealogists — it must be properly documented.
